

One of BENITO's product lines is signage. Putting white on black in different historical locations or marking routes to enjoy nature is one of its functions. On the outskirts of Soria, the Alto de los Ciervos mountain bike circuit has been signposted, which runs along paths and passes some points of interest

Material such as wood has been used, suitable for the natural environment where it is placed. Useful information about the history of the place or the direction of the route and its technical characteristics can be found at places of interest and at the start of the route.
